Parentology Dalton Conley 2014-03-18 An award-winning scientist offers his unorthodox approach to childrearing: "Parentology is brilliant, jaw-droppingly funny, and full of wisdom...bound to change your thinking about parenting and its conventions" (Amy Chua, author of Battle Hymn of the Tiger Mother). If you're like many parents, you might ask family and friends for advice when faced with important choices about how to raise your kids. You might turn to parenting books or simply rely on timeworn religious or cultural traditions. But when Dalton Conley, a dual-doctorate scientist and full-blown nerd, needed childrearing advice, he turned to scientific research to make the big decisions. In Parentology, Conley hilariously reports the results of those experiments, from bribing his kids to do math (since studies show conditional cash transfers improved educational and health outcomes for kids) to teaching them impulse control by giving them weird names (because evidence shows kids with unique names learn not to react when their peers tease them) to getting a vasectomy (because fewer kids in a family mean smarter kids). Conley encourages parents to draw on the latest data to rear children, if only because that level of engagement with kids will produce solid and happy ones. Ultimately these experiments are very loving, and the outcomes are redemptive—even when Conley's sassy kids show him the limits of his profession. Parentology teaches you everything you need to know about the latest literature on parenting—with lessons that go down easy. You'll be laughing and learning at the same time.

International Classification of Financial Reporting Christopher Nobes 1992-01-01 With the growing integration of the international economy the international differences in financial reporting practices have never been so important in multinational business. Recent reforms in International Accounting Standards, combined with the continuing European harmonization, have placed this topic high on the current agenda of both researchers and of business analysts actively concerned with international accounting practice. This new, updated edition of Christopher Nobes' International Classification of Financial Reporting examines the causes and nature of the differences between financial reporting practices in different countries, charting all the many significant developments to have taken place through the 1980s. The relevant research published during this period is discussed, alongside the effects of the regulatory changes that have taken place. Improvements in the existing system of classification in financial reporting are proposed in the light of the accelerated process of harmonization currently taking place. The resulting volume is an indispensable source for academics and professionals in international accounting and for all who are engaged in the process of European harmonization.
